During their first official meeting of 2019, Comal County commissioners will consider re-appointing board members for county emergency services districts and entertain a handful of other agenda items when they meet at 8:30 a.m. Thursday in the Commissioners Courtroom, 100 Main Plaza in New Braunfels.

Commissioners will discuss and consider approving re-appointments of 15 volunteer board commissioners that oversee operations in seven ESDs, which provide fire and emergency medical services throughout the county.

After entertaining comments from citizens and reports from county staffers and elected officials on items of community interest, commissioners will also discuss and consider approving:

- An amended plat combining lots in the Rebecca Creek Ranches subdivision.
- An extension request under the Edwards Aquifer Protection Plan for planned additions and improvements within the road department's water quality basin.
- The assignment of an additional Comal County Sheriff's Office deputy to serve as a resource officer in the Comal Independent School District.
- An updated agreement with Hart InterCivic, the company that provides elections equipment and software supporting the county's eSlate balloting system.
